Words of Warning.—THE SEASON OF COLDS AND COUGHS is now approaching. The weak and delicate should therefore beware. As a preventive of these common and insidious compishus, no medicinal compound or discovery has proved so effectual as the use of a good Strengthening Plaster. Every practical physician knows this fact, and every man and woman should be aware of it. If all those who are subject to exposure, or who are naturally delicate and predisposed to pulmonary complaints, would habitually wear a proper Plaster during the Fall and Winter mouths. the annual deaths by consumption in the linited States would be decreased one thousandfold. Until this is done our national source will continue its destructive march, decolating households, and numbering among its victims the best and the fairest of all ages, classes and conditions.

It is surely most strange when so chang, so simple and so certains a means is at hand, that it is not embraced by all whom it would benefit. Any good Plaster will answer a good purpose, but the peculiar properties of MUREHEAD'S MAINETIC PLANTER must recommend it as the every best. Its application is warm and soothing; its effects are immediate and permanent, and it imparts strength while it subdues pain. It is, therefore, almost a positive antiotote to Pulmonary statacks while worm and as a prompt remedy for these dangerous affections, a single box is worth all the saims, Baissams, Syraps, Elisins and Fectorals which modern phinanthropists extol so highly in the newspapers. Many a tear is shed over an early grave in direct consequence of these "wonderful remedies." The truth is that in matters relating to our health we seddom use our common sense. How can it protect a weak chest and delicate lungs! How can it do any good whatever! Thousands of sad hearts are now grieving in protect a weak chest and delicate inners. How can a bottle, or a hundred bottles, of aweetened water, with a little landanum and ipecac, cure a cold or stop a cough! How can it protects who have a cold and neglects it

JOHN ZUNDEL.

This New Book, designed for the double purpose of furnishing a collection of pieces suitable for Opening Service, and also sapplying the wants of eliging Societies, Masical Classes, &c., is MR. ZUNDEL'S BEST WORK.

The arrangement of the Organ Scours, with directions for the use of stops, is one of its peculiar features, several of the pieces being arranged with Organ obligato, in which this celebrated master has exhibited the beauties and effects of his favorite instrument with his peculiar ability.

For young Organists and others this is an admirable school, and its Societies desiring to practice more difficult masic than the ordinary anthem, this book is perticularly recommanded. Price 72 cents.

The l'ablianers would solicit attention to the following netic of the work: From The Troy Daily Times.

"Distinguished as they were by naturalness of style, class ness of argument, systematic arrangement, and often by pit turesque description and eloquent appeal, these lectures, at time of their delivery, attracted large audieness, and were a ceived with a most general satisfaction. The discourses one one of their interest in print. Rather, their case of construction, naturalness of arrangement, and colloquial style, investment them here with a renewed charm, that will as assuredly make them as attractive to the thousands who will receive them it their present form, as they were to the hundreds who hear them from the pulpit."

From the New-York Observer.

Correspondence of The Christian Chronicle.

"Gathering around the prominent and representative characteristics of each person overything that is valuable in his his tory, the author has exhibited a discrimination of analysis, vivideness of description, perspicuity of style, and a practical ness of application, that cannot fall to render it a work of permanent and useful value. It commends itself to the favorable consideration of every youth desirous of forming correct view of life and character, to every lover of Scriptural narrative and biography, and to all who delight to study the wonderful adaptation of inde, and illustrations of the harmonious workings out of the Divine purposes, in conjunction with the untranussied engrowth of voluntary individuality.
